ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Millennium Report is dedicated to the world's far-sighted "Millennium Pioneers", especially Don Toppin, Robert Muller, Ed McNally, Peter Aykroyd, Gerald Barney, Hillel Schwartz, Eric McLuhan, Maurice Strong and Jay Gary. We would like to thank all our partners around the world who have initiated Millennium projects and events with vision and goodwill. We would also like to thank our families and friends who have been so patient with our 'Millennium Mania' over the past few years.

THE PUBLISHER

Wayne Dorey, Executive Producer & Editor of 2000CDN, and his staff have created a premier Millennium Website and Global Information Center - www.2000cdn.com. With 17 separate sections and over 2001 external links, www.2000cdn.com is breaking new ground with its comprehensive and entertaining Year 2000 on-line domain. 2000CDN is your connection to the Millennium and the Future. Visit us today! Come back tomorrow! You'll be sure to find something new!

WWW.2000CDN.COM provides a global overview of Millennium projects, events and activities with a web presence through sections such as The Millennium Report, Millennium Headlines News (updated weekly) and our Y2K Resource Center. We also have extensive sections on "Travel 2000", Y2K Information and Solutions, the "Maturing Marketplace" (Editor: PJ Wade) and much more - including entertainment and education for children and the young at heart. ("The Intergalactic Challenge" will show you what we mean!). Coming attractions include our "Millennium Merchandise Mall" and E-commerce solution.

THE MILLENNIUM REPORT EDITOR

David Woolfson is one of the world's leading experts on activities and opportunities for the new Millennium. He has originated and been a major participant in numerous Millennium initiatives since 1989. Mr. Woolfson is also a consultant, writer and speaker focusing on future-oriented trends and ideas. He is Editor of The Millennium Report @ www.2000cdn.com, President of Great Millennium Group, Coordinator of the Toronto/2000 Foresight Seminars and Toronto Chapter Coordinator of the World Future Society.

Magic Moments
A Great Millennium Song
By Don Toppin

MAGIC MOMENTS

These are the moments of them all!
These are the dates we can't forestall!
This is the time to greet
A Great Millennium!
These are the Magic Moment calls!

This is a time to meditate!
As seeds begin to germinate!
Linked to the power of love
Through all of humankind!
These are the moments of them all!

This is a time to celebrate!
Thankful that we have reached the gate!
This is the time to shape
A Great Millennium!
These are the Magic Moment calls!

MY DREAM 2000
By Robert Muller

I Dream...

That on 1 January 2000
The whole world will stand still
In prayer, awe and gratitude
For our beautiful, heavenly Earth
And for the miracle of human life.

I Dream...

That young and old, rich and poor,
Black and white,
Peoples from North and South,
From East and West,
From all beliefs and cultures
Will join their hands, minds and hearts
In an unprecedented, universal
Millennium Celebration of Life

I Dream...

That during the year 2000
Innumerable celebrations and events
Will take place all over the globe
To gauge the long road covered by humanity
To study our mistakes
And to plan the feats
Still to be accomplished
For the full flowering of the human race
In peace, justice and happiness

I Dream...

That the few remaining years
To the Millennium
Be devoted by all humans, nations and institutions
To unparalleled thinking, action,
Inspiration, elevation,
Determination and love
To solve our remaining problems
And to achieve
A peaceful, united human family on Earth

I Dream...

That the third millennium
Will be declared
And made
Humanity's First Millennium of Peace

Robert Muller is former Assistant Secretary-General of the United Nations and Chancellor Emeritus of the United Nations University for Peace.

Excerpts from Dr. Muller's book "2000 Ideas for the Year 2000"* can be viewed on the Internet at <http://www.worldpeace2000.org/ideas>.

Idea # 1283 - "May every institution, every nation, every peoples' association and movement, every university, college and school, every religion, every province, city and rural area, every indigenous, ethnic and linguistic group, every corporation and business enterprise, every profession and every family and individual on Earth formulate their dreams, proposals and ideas for a better world. It would be an unprecedented state of the world, global, world-wide, democratic public opinion poll."

Introduction

The Millennium is almost here! It's been a thousand years in the making and the world is getting ready! The Year 2000, which precedes our entry into the next age, has stood as a symbol of hope, fear and the future for almost as long. It's astonishing to consider that over the next few years we will pass through this monumental threshold and end up on the other side - in the New Millennium!

As with all the events in our lives, some address the opportunities a little earlier than others. In the case of the new Millennium these are the "Millennium Pioneers" - the individuals and groups around the world who began planning for this unique "once-in-a-thousand-year" opportunity as far back as the early 1960's.

This First Edition of The Millennium Report (1998/99) tells the story of these exceptional pioneers as well as providing a comprehensive, in-depth and up-to-date overview of Millennium projects, events and activities in Canada and worldwide with a web presence.

Canadians have been leaders in preparing for the Millennium since the very beginning. Much of this tale is told in the following pages. It paints a picture of foresight and vision and of the great challenges and opportunities before us at this very special time in history.

To some the Millennium means a huge party. To others it means a huge computer headache. Both are valid! To the far-sighted trailblazers who make up these pages, however, the Millennium also means an unprecedented opportunity for each and everyone of us to work together to shape a positive future for all!

The enormous energy that is inherent in this special moment is about to be unleashed! We are about to witness an unprecedented 'Global Celebration' of the new Millennium, the Earth and Life itself! Everyone, everywhere can participate in this great adventure!

2000cdn.com is here to assist you. If you have a Millennium initiative that isn't listed in The Millennium Report - let us know about it! If you're in the process of creating one, tell us about it when you're ready and we'll list it in our updates or future issues. Finally, if you haven't started your Millennium Project - begin one today! The Millennium Report is the tool you need to join the "Millennium Pioneers".

With the web-based and print versions of The Millennium Report, both updated on an on-going basis, 2000cdn.com is pleased to continue our commitment to being - "Your Source for Global Millennium Information".

A MILLENNIUM MESSAGE

From Don Toppin, Founding Chairman, World Millennium Network

What happens tomorrow is based on what happens today! Great thoughts can bring about great actions! The Great Millennium Campaign is a great thought whose time has come!

For this very first time, every person on earth now has an opportunity to participate in this Great Millennium Campaign for a future of peace and well-being for all! This campaign engages everyone, everywhere - all cultures, all nations!

Our journey has already started through the Year 2000 into the Third Millennium. There is much that can be shaped! The opportunities are enormous! So are the challenges! Vision can win!

The immediate challenge facing humanity today is "The Millennium Bug" (Y2K) and the widespread unawareness of the urgency surrounding it. It now appears almost certain that at midnight December 31, 1999 many of the world's computers will either shutdown or begin making serious miscalculations. It is also clear that "The Bug" is not a single event but rather a series of possible crashes that could strike for months both before and after.

Readiness has become the key word! A moment of readiness will become a moment of magic when you are prepared to move forward. This will create the opportunity for many "Magic Moments."

Many positive actions have already been taken in several directions. Successes are beginning to be announced. Magic Moments are beginning to occur. Mutual Life of Canada has set a standard for Y2K readiness. Pope John Paul II has activated the Year 2000 as the Great Jubilee. Other initiatives will soon appear!

You are invited to join special "Millennium Singalongs" which will go hand-in-hand with Magic Moments. Beginning today, Singalongs and Magic Moments will build up to the "First Great Millennium Global Singalong" and the "Mega Magic Moment" at one second after midnight on January 1, 2001!

Great Millennium Music will encircle the globe as we join together to welcome the new Century. The first "World Day" has arrived. The Millennium has begun! We will prepare now to make it great!!

Don Toppin is a senior Canadian futurist who is internationally recognized as an adult educator, organizational consultant and social innovator.

( Folio One of the Great Millennium Songs is now available as part of The Great Millennium Kit. See Order Form at the end of The Millennium Report.)

FAQ's

The Year 2000 & The Millennium

1) What is a Millennium?

A Millennium is a thousand year period of time measured according to a universally accepted time standard -- seconds, minutes, hours, days, weeks, years, decades, centuries and millennia. The international standard of time measurement is the Gregorian Calendar, which starts from the birth of Jesus (BC and AD). Accordingly, we are closing the 2nd Millennium of the modern era and entering the 3rd Millennium.

2) When does the new Millennium begin?

Contrary to popular belief, the 3rd Millennium actually begins January 1, 2001 and not on January 1, 2000. This was confirmed by the Royal Greenwich Observatory in 1996 and is due to the fact that there is no Year Zero in the Gregorian Calendar. Therefore, the Year 2000 is the final year of this Millennium. In light of this fortuitous situation, the world will celebrate and commemorate the Millennium from December 31, 1999 through January 1, 2001 and beyond. Preparations, of course, have already begun. The three year period from January 1, 1999 to December 31, 2001 is now being referred to as the "Millennial Moment."

3) Is the Millennium for everyone?

As the thousand-year period of time we are marking is attached to a western and Christian-based calendar, some people feel that it is exclusively a western or Christian event. This, however, is not the case. Firstly, although the Gregorian Calendar is the primary calendar only in the western nations, every nation on Earth utilizes this calendar for international purposes, including for business transactions and travel. Thus, it's a global standard. Secondly, the end of the current Millennium marks a thousand years of our collective history and is thus a shared milestone for all. It's a "Thousand Year Anniversary" for the entire human family. The Millennium is for everyone!

4) Isn't the celebration of the Millennium only a one night event?

The celebration and commemoration of the Millennium will be much more than just a one night event. People and organizations around the world have been preparing for this extraordinary moment since the 1960's. Millennium projects and initiatives from every corner of the world began appearing in the 1970's and will continue through the Year 2001 and beyond. After all, the new Millennium itself is guaranteed to last a thousand years!

5) Why is the Year 2000 important? Isn't it just another year?

The Year 2000 marks the end of one Millennium and the start of a new one. Accordingly, it is an enormous milestone in the annals of human civilization. We are all familiar with the celebration of personal and collective milestones in our lives. These include birthdays and anniversaries, organizational and national landmarks, and, of course, the arrival of each new year. The celebration of a thousand-year Millennium, however, is an unprecedented event for everyone.

On their own, these time-measured milestones have little meaning. It's what we make of such moments in our lives and in the lives of others that provide their worth. Marking the new Millennium can be ultimately insignificant or a major turning point in human history. The choice is ours!

A MILLENNIUM VISION

From The Editor David Woolfson: "Beyond Celebration"

The arrival of the new Millennium will be the most significant event in our lifetimes. After all, it's a milestone that only one generation in forty is privileged to mark - and that generation is our generation!

Everyone on the planet will ultimately get involved - whether to celebrate a thousand years of civilization, the birth of Christianity, the Earth and Life itself, or to address the Y2K computer problem. No one will be immune to an event of this magnitude in our global village.

Celebrations and Y2K, however, are only part of the story. Marking the new Millennium also means marking 1,000 years of human history. This presents each and every one of us with a unique opportunity to reflect on the past, address the challenges and opportunities of the present and shape a positive future together.

Today we face enormous challenges and opportunities. The challenges are extraordinary as our civilization and survival as a species are in jeopardy. The opportunities are also extraordinary as they are being driven by unprecedented revolutions in scientific knowledge, new technologies, global communications and human understanding.

What effect will these unprecedented changes have on the future of humanity? Increased knowledge doesn't guarantee increased understanding. We must also strive for deeper insights into ourselves and each other, as well as the mutual recognition of our shared past, mutual interests and common future. In so doing we will be poised for a major leap in the evolution of human thought - the development of collective wisdom!

With our new tools and potential wisdom we may finally be on the verge of a truly new world. A world that can deliver the eternal dream of humanity which has been unfolding since our ancestors first looked up at a starlit sky. The dream of a peaceful, harmonious world and a healthy, vibrant earth.

The turn of the Millennium can be the climatic moment in human history. It's arriving at a time when we have reached a major crossroads in our 15 billion year evolutionary journey. There are now two broad paths before us: the unsustainable one we are currently on which may lead to disaster and the sustainable one we must strive for which can lead to prosperity for all.

Humanity's ultimate survival and success may well be determined by the choices and actions we collectively take over the next number of years. Humankind will either finally develop true wisdom or may well perish. Our tools are now much too powerful to allow us any substantial margin for error. Any conflict today between nations or peoples can quickly lead to a global disaster. Our rapidly growing impact on the earth may soon result in a widespread Eco-collapse. We are in real danger of destroying the greatest gift of all - the Gift of Life!

In the midst of this crucial time the Year 2000 and the new Millennium have appeared. Whether by coincidence or otherwise it's "just what the Doctor ordered!" It provides the single greatest opportunity each of us will ever have to communicate a positive message to the world. Through our thoughts and actions we can link with others around the planet, who share the vision of shaping a Great Millennium of Peace and Well-being for All!

Today, for the first time in history, we have the tools, resources and abilities to achieve this greatest of goals. Global communication networks are now being developed which are rapidly connecting people worldwide just as this special moment arrives. It appears that only "old" thinking may now be standing in our way.

Millions of people have already transcended the "old" thinking - perhaps a critical mass. We need to link up so that we can know of each other's efforts and communicate. We also need an initiative broad enough to unite us toward a peaceful and sustainable world in the next Millennium.

Each one of us can help make this dream a reality. Together we can co-create a future for humanity that is worthy of humanity's immense potential. The opportunity to do so is now before us. It's inherent in the impending arrival of the new Millennium.

The Great Millennium Campaign has begun! Each of the "Millennium Pioneers" listed in the following pages is already a part of this extraordinary campaign to begin a Great New Millennium! Everyone everywhere can participate in shaping the Global Age!

MILLENNIAL THEMES

The years 1999, 2000 and 2001 may be pivotal in shaping humanity's ultimate destiny. This three year period has been coined the "Millennial Moment" by the Millennium Institute of Arlington, Virginia (<http://www.igc.apc.org.millennium>).

There are many themes inherent in the arrival of the Year 2000 and Third Millennium which greatly enhance the great opportunity presented by the Millennial Moment. The primary one, of course, is Celebration.

The turn of the Millennium is a calendar-based milestone. Similar milestones, such as New Years Eve's, birthdays, anniversaries, organizational and national landmarks, etc., are greeted with significant celebration in every culture and nation of the world.

These special milestones measure periods of time from one year to hundreds of years. A Millennium, however, is a thousand years. This means a Mega-Anniversary and thus a Mega-Celebration! It also is not a just a milestone for one person, organization or nation but a Mega-Event for the entire world, which the whole world will celebrate.

Celebration, however, is only part of the story. When we stop to consider these time-measured milestones, our thoughts naturally turn first to the past and then to the future. On a birthday, anniversary or a New Year's Eve we think about the accomplishments of the previous year and also about what remains to be done.

Celebration, accordingly, leads to two additional themes: Reflection and Renewal. These temporal milestones enable us to pause in the on-going drama of our lives so that we may reflect on the past and renew ourselves for the future. In doing so they fulfil a very important psychological need.

As the Millennium is a 'Mega-Milestone' for all of humanity, reflection and renewal will also occur at the broader organizational, community and societal levels. It is this process of widespread reflection and renewal which represents the highest potential of the Millennial Moment.

Where have we come from? Where are we now? Where are we going? These basic human questions are more in need of understanding today than ever before. Our search for answers to these questions over the next few years is a great cause for hope as we enter the new Millennium.

(Further exploration of societal themes for the Year 2000 and the new Millennium can be found in two excellent articles: Generational Change, Historical Age, Calendar Page by Hillel Schwartz which is available at the Millennium Institute website at <http://www.igc.apc.org.millennium> and Trace the History of Talk 2000 by Jay Gary at the "Let's Talk 2000" website at <http://www.talk2000.org>)

THE MILLENNIUM OPPORTUNITY

Marking the turn-of-the-Millennium presents each of us with a unique opportunity - an opportunity that appears only once every thousand years.

The world was a very different place a thousand years ago. The Year 1000 A.D. was the middle of the "Dark Ages" in Europe and over five hundred years away from the Renaissance and the Scientific Revolution. The Church and the nobility determined the life of the citizen. The Earth was thought to be flat and at the center of a static and unchanging Universe.

The world was as different then as it will be a thousand years from now. We can't be sure of what the future holds. What is certain, however, is that our generation will have a much greater say in that future than any other in human history. The powerful tools we have today such as computers, satellites, the Internet, and the new technologies of the near future assure this.

We have much to be thankful for, much to reflect upon and much to renew. It's a time to celebrate our great achievements and address the challenges and opportunities of the present and future with hope and optimism.

The world has responded and is preparing for this grand experience through thousands of special initiatives. Millennium projects, events and gifts are now being planned on every continent.

These exceptional initiatives, listed in the following pages of The Millennium Report, all share two things in common. Each reflects the best hopes and aspirations of those undertaking it. Each is an enduring testament to this unique moment in our collective history.

In an article published in the Toronto Star (What Will Canada Do? - December 31, 1995) your Editor wrote: "Everyone can do something special to mark this extraordinary time. In small ways and large, we can all celebrate our shared past and express our hopes for the future with a unique Millennium Project."

This is the enormous promise inherent in marking the arrival of the new Millennium. It can become a shared endeavor uniting all sectors and cultures of society. It can also enhance understanding and harmony among the world's people and open the door to increased dialogue about our current challenges and opportunities.

In an address to a national Millennium gathering on October 18, 1996, Don Toppin, Canada's senior futurist, stated; "There have been few such Mega-Projects in history. Our Mega-Project is The Great Millennium Campaign and it will be different from all previous ones. It will be Global, Technological, Multicultural and Interfaith. It will change the world." (Excerpts from this Address are reprinted in the Appendices.)

The moment of decision is at hand. As individuals, organizations, communities and nations we can choose to fully respond to this unprecedented Millennium opportunity!

The Millennium is for everyone! We can each take up the challenge and address the future with vision and goodwill through a special Millennium project or initiative. Each of us can become a "Millennium Pioneer!"

AN OVERVIEW

(An overview of the history and evolution of the "Millennium Story" - from its inception 2,000 years ago to the opportunity presented today.)

In the Beginning...

The initial concept of "Millennium" was a religious one derived from two apocalyptic books of the Bible - The Book of Daniel in the Old Testament and the Book of Revelation in the New Testament. The Christian Millennium is a time that will see the Second Coming of Christ and the final battle between good and evil.

This powerful vision of the "end time" has significantly influenced Western history and civilization over much of these 2,000 years. Almost every generation has featured "Millenarian Movements" where large numbers of people have awaited the end of the world at an appointed time or place. For information on Millenarian Movements throughout history see the Center for Millennial Studies @ <http://www.mille.org>.

Whether such movements peaked in Europe around the Year 1000 A.D. is subject to much debate as little is known with certainty about that period of time. It is certain, however, that millenarianism is peaking leading up to the Year 2000. A great deal of information on millenarian and 'end-time' groups is available on the Internet through such web sites as the Millennium Prophecy Report @ <http://www.channel1.com/mpr> and Millennium Concentrate @ <http://www.earthlink.net/~hipbone/mille.htm>.

The Calendar Millennium

Subsequent to the original meaning of the Millennium in Christian and Western history, a secular concept developed based upon the completion of a thousand year period in human history as measured by the calendar. All human civilizations have devised calendars to measure time.

The Western calendar, or the Gregorian Calendar, was instituted by the Catholic Church in 525 A.D. when Pope John I asked a monk named Dionysius Exiguus ("Dennis the Short") to come up with a new calendar based on Jesus' birthday. Dennis proceeded to calculate the birth date of Jesus and to count time from that moment forward. He called the first year after Jesus' birth 1 A.D. (Anno Domini - Latin for "in the Year of our Lord") instead of 0 A.D., which is why the Third Millennium A.D. doesn't really begin until January 1, 2001. Dennis also miscalculated Jesus' birth date by at least four years.

Nevertheless, the Gregorian Calendar has grown over the centuries to be accepted as THE calendar for the English speaking world and to become the international civil calendar for the purposes of business transactions and travel. A great deal of information on the subject of calendars and time can be found on the World Wide Web. See 'A Walk Through Time' @ <http://physics.nist.gov/GenInt/Time/time.html> and the United States Naval Observatory @ <http://psyche.usno.navy.mil/millennium>.

Accordingly, it will truly be a GLOBAL 2000 with a shared calendar and nations around the world marking the Millennium as a "Thousand Year Anniversary" for humanity.

The main celebrations will begin on New Years Eve 1999 and continue through to December 31, 2001 and beyond. Special events, projects, conferences, forums, symposia, products and services will appear worldwide during the entire years 1999, 2000 and 2001 - the Millennial Moment! Planning and anticipation, however, began many years ago.

*Millennium 2000 - The Pioneers

In modern times the fascination with the Year 2000 began with Edward Bellamy's utopian novel published in 1887, entitled "Looking Backward 2000-1887" which became the first 'predictive' book to reach a worldwide audience. Bellamy predicted that the world of the year 2000 would have "radio, electric lights, clean air, full employment, retirement at 45 with a good income and community centers." (At least he got the radio and electric lights part right! Ed.)

The next big fascination with 2000 came in the 1960's. The first organization in the world to focus on recognizing the importance of the Year 2000 was The World Association for Celebrating the Year 2000 which was founded in England in 1963.

This 1960s also witnessed the start of the professional future studies movement in the U.S. and Europe with the establishment of numerous think tanks, futures institutes and futurist organizations. These included the Hudson Institute which published a book entitled "The Year 2000" and the founding of the World Future Society in 1966 by Ed and Sally Cornish (<http://www.wfs.org>). This movement has greatly contributed to giving '2000' its futuristic spin.

At the time, American sociologist Daniel Bell of the Commission on the Year 2000 predicted that "the psychological magic of the approaching Millennium could create universal awareness which would change attitudes and behaviors in adjusting to post-industrial society."

In Berlin, Robert Jungk wrote "The Millennium Man" and, in The Netherlands, Fred Polak organized "Mankind 2000". In Paris, Bertrand de Jouvenal created Futuribles International (<http://www.futuribles.com>). In Rome, Aurelio Peccei brought together

"The Club of Rome" which published "Limits To Growth" (1972) which was a first attempt to create computer models of the impact of humanity on the Earth's resources and environment.

In the United States, the Rand Corporation became influential as a major "futures" think tank and Alvin Toffler's "Future Shock" (1972) became a major best seller.

In Canada, Expo '67 in Montreal featured a futuristic dome created by Buckminster Fuller who subsequently inspired the "Montmorency Conferences on Leisure" (1969 - 1971). Prime Minister Trudeau recruited Ron Ritchie to become the founding Chairman of the Institute for Research on Public Policy.

At the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education in Toronto, Canadian futurist and educator Don Toppin completed a project on 'Communication and Cybernation' which was published as "This Cybernetic Age" in 1969. This work led to the "First Canadian Conferences on the Future" (The Muskoka Institute) which reached their peak in 1975, coincidental with the advent of microchips and global satellite communications.

The 1970's also featured global and national goals-setting by various United Nations and national agencies and the publication of the "Global 2000 Report to the President" which was commissioned by US President Jimmy Carter. This report alerted the world to many of the major environmental and social challenges facing us today. The "Global 2000 Report" was edited by Dr. Gerald Barney who continues this crucial work as President of the Millennium Institute in Arlington, Virginia. Information on the initiatives of the Millennium Institute can be accessed through its web site at <http://www.igc.apc.org/millennium>.

(* Much of this section has been abstracted from "Toward The Great Millennium, Essay Three - The Preludes", with the kind permission of Don Toppin.)

The Committee on Toronto/2000

Thousands of "Year 2000" groups and think tanks were formed around the world such as "Hawaii 2000" and "Goals For Dallas." Very few, however, remain active today. One such group that has remained active and intact is the Committee on Toronto/2000 with its forum for "bringing great ideas and great people together." The purposes of Toronto/2000 are to "build bridges of understanding, locally and globally, and to foster a greater sense of personal and organizational responsibility for the future."

The Committee on Toronto/2000 (continued)

The concept for the creation of the Toronto/2000 group arose out of a conversation between Don Toppin, Founding Chairman of the Toronto Futurists Group, and Alvin Toffler in 1972. Years later, after the historic Third General Assembly of the World Future Society in 1980 in Toronto (The First Global Conference on the Future), the Committee on Toronto/2000 was initiated by the Toronto Futurists Group under the auspices of the Global Foundation For Understanding, and in association with the Department of Adult Education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education and the Planning Commissioner of the City of Toronto. The Toronto/2000 Foresight Seminars have been on-going monthly since January 1981 and will continue to the end of 2000.

The Great Millennium Campaign

The Great Millennium Campaign was first announced on January 20, 1986 at Toronto City Hall by the Committee on Toronto/2000. The Campaign promotes a unique perspective on the upcoming Millennium. It views the Millennium as a great opportunity for all humanity and calls upon each and everyone of us to act in ways which will help to shape a positive future for all.

The vision of The Great Millennium Campaign can be summed up by this statement: "The Year 2000 presents an unprecedented opportunity to view the past, address the challenges and possibilities of the present and shape a positive future together. We envision a Global Celebration uniting people from all cultures and nations in the spirit of hope, understanding and goodwill as humanity begins a Great New Millennium!"

In July, 1986 the World Future Society held its annual conference, "Future Focus: The Next Fifteen Years," in New York City. The Society published a selection of papers in conjunction with the conference, "Challenges and Opportunities: From Now To 2001" which featured Don Toppin's Toward the Great Millennium as an epilogue. In this essay, Mr. Toppin first offered his "vision of the bright prospects for a great new age for all humanity if we only have the wisdom and determination to work together for the dawn of such an age." (The essay is republished in its entirety in the Appendices to the Report.)

In response to this essay, Robert Muller (then Assistant Secretary-General of the United Nations) wrote to Don Toppin to express his complete agreement with the vision set out and his own view that humanity is accelerating toward a "great take-off" as we near the Millennium. This began an on-going collaboration between these two great thinkers.

Dr. Muller was one of the first individuals of international stature to call for a worldwide celebration of the Year 2000. This call was made in an exchange of letters with Margaret Mead in 1977 arising out of the United Nation's Earth Day celebrations. Robert Muller's poem, My Dream 2000, (which is reprinted above) has inspired thousands of people around the world to "unparalleled thinking, perception, inspiration, elevation and planning for the achievement of a peaceful and sustainable human society on Earth."

As the thinking grew globally, the World Millennium Network was launched as a network of far-sighted individuals who saw the Millennium as presenting a great opportunity to shape a positive future for humanity. Network founders include Don Toppin, Aurelio Peccei, George Ignatieff, Robert Muller, Ed McNally, Eric McLuhan, Peter Aykroyd, Maurice Strong, James Draper, Stephen Ross, Anne D'Andrea, John Boyd, Don Anderson, Nole Bojovic, Lois James, Ken Davis, David Walsh, Gerald Barney and Jay Gary.

In October 1986 the "Great Millennium Global Singalong" (the world's first Global Millennium Project) was introduced at the United Nation's International Year of Peace ceremony at Toronto City Hall. The goal of the initiative is to bring people together around the world to share in the experience of the arrival of the new Millennium through the singing of specially-prepared, intergenerational "Great Millennium Songs." (Information on participating in the Singalong can be found at the back of The Millennium Report in the "Great Millennium Kit" Request Form.)

In June 1989, Your Editor met Don Toppin and, thereafter, many of the founders of the World Millennium Network and was inspired to contribute to the ultimate success of The Great Millennium Campaign.

Another pioneer of the World Millennium Network, Jay Gary, initiated the "Let's Talk 2000" Forum on the Internet in 1995 (<http://www.talk2000.org>) which now has thousands of subscribers worldwide. It is the premier global forum for discussions on the Year 2000 and the new Millennium from all perspectives.

In June 1995, Robert Muller traveled to Toronto and Hamilton, Ontario at the invitation of Toronto/2000 to participate in the "Countdown 2000: Shaping the Global Age" events. This series launched The Great Millennium Campaign in celebration of the 50th Anniversary of the United Nations and 90th Anniversary of Rotary International. The special conferences and concerts were co-sponsored by the Global Foundation For Understanding, the Rotary Club of Toronto-Forest Hill and the Toronto and Hamilton Chapters of the United Nations Association in Canada. A number of "Millennium Messages" arose out of these events which have since received wide distribution. (See Appendices.)

"The Millennium is coming anyway! It's what we do about it that will make the difference!"

The following passage is taken from an essay by Don Toppin's written on New Year's Day 1998, entitled The Universal Spirit of 2000:

Even now the social costs of fear (the opposite of hope), are rarely understood, although trillions of dollars are devoured by fear each year. An explosion of understanding is needed. The Year 2000 will surely create and enhance understanding at many levels.

Never before has the opportunity existed to link words, thoughts, and hopes with the six billion inhabitants of the global village. Everyone should have the opportunity to participate and share. Awareness, through such concepts as foresight and vision, magnifies the metaphysics of hope.

As hope increases, attitudes and behaviors become more positive, more productive and less costly. As group consciousness increases the social costs of fear decrease. The process is already under way. The information/knowledge network is growing. The interconnections are vast. Awareness is rapidly expanding.

We are already an informal invisible network of autonomous people and organizations who are involved in what has been called "The Most Far-Reaching Initiative in Human History." Relevant discussions and conferences have been happening for years. The parts are coming together. All human beings on Earth, whether they know it or not, are already involved in the shaping process for better or worse. Clearly "worse" could be fatal!

However, since this is the first Millennium for the electronic global village, which transcends boundaries and barriers, a positive vision is justified. Before the advent of 1000 AD some forecast the arrival of the Kingdom of Heaven while others forecast the Apocalypse and the End of the World.

This time it is highly valid to forecast an end to a world of madness and ignorance and the arrival of a Great Millennium of Peace, Well-Being, Understanding and Harmony. Seeds have already been planted which are beginning to sprout. Although "no one" can do "everything", "everyone" can do "something." Individually and collectively, we can make our own unique gifts to posterity.

Millennium Bureau of Canada @ <http://www.millennium.gc.ca>

Canada has been a leader in preparing to celebrate and commemorate the Millennium since the very beginning. From 'futures' based initiatives to community Millennium committees across the country, Canadians have been at the forefront of the movement to mark the Millennium in a meaningful manner.

The concept for a large-scale commemoration and celebration of the Year 2000 and the new Millennium evolved out of the pioneering efforts of three great Canadians; Don Toppin, Peter Aykroyd and Eric McLuhan. These efforts began as far back as 1964 in discussions leading up to Canada's Centennial celebration in 1967.

A number of initiatives were instituted which have helped shape the current state of Millennium preparations in Canada. These initiatives included: The Muskoka Institute for the Future (1972), the World Future Society Assembly (The First Global Conference on the Future) in Toronto (1980), the Toronto / 2000 Foresight Seminars (1981), the Global Foundation For Understanding (1981), The Great Millennium Campaign and the World Millennium Network (1986), the "Countdown 2000" events at the Ontario Institute For Studies in Education (1995) and the formation of the Millennium Council of Canada (1996).

The creation of a "Millennium Council" for Canada was the result of a meeting in Montreal in January 1996 between the Global Foundation For Understanding and the "Bienvenue 2000" Project. These two organizations agreed to form the core of a "Millennium Council" which would connect Millennium projects and events on a national basis. After this initial meeting, communication occurred with other Canadian Millennium project organizations with a view to creating a national non-profit Millennium organization. These groups included: "i human 2000", Calgary 2000, The Students Commission, Generation 2000, Music Canada 2000, Toronto 2000 Alliance, International School Peace Gardens, The Community Project Centre, Canadian Foundation for World Development, The Creativity Consortium, Ontario Council of Educators for a Global Perspective, Millennium Community Building Association, Millennium Foundation of Canada & International Foundation of Learning.

"AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

The Founding Congress for the Millennium Council of Canada took place in Toronto on October 18, 1996 under the chairmanship of Douglas Roche, O.C. Over 30 Canadian Millennium project groups participated, together with local and national government representatives. On April 4, 1997 the Millennium Council held a launch event at Toronto City Hall to mark the start of the 1000-day Countdown to the Year 2000.

In December 1997, 2000CDN & The Millennium Report (<http://www.2000cdn.com>) - our Millennium home base in cyberspace - came on-line with the mission of providing comprehensive information on, and links to, Millennium projects and events in Canada and worldwide as well as Y2K information and solutions.

In February 1998, the Government of Canada announced the Canada Millennium Scholarship Program as its major Millennium legacy project. More than 100,000 scholarships will be awarded to full and part-time students each year over 10 years through an initial endowment of $2.5 billion beginning in the new Millennium. This initiative was followed with the launch of the government's "National Millennium Program" and the creation of the Millennium Bureau of Canada. The program will support community, national and international Millennium activities, which leave lasting legacies. All Canadians were encouraged to find ways to participate and federal departments and agencies were asked to create their Millennium projects.

In June 1998 the Millennium Bureau of Canada unveiled its Canada Millennium Partnership Program to assist community-based Millennium projects across the country with up to $150,000,000 in partnership funding. Applications can be submitted for the three remaining phases of the program with the next deadline being May 31, 1999. For information on the selection criteria, application process and funded projects - visit the Millennium Bureau's web site at <http://www.millennium.gc.ca>.

As a result of all this preparation, thousands of local, national and global Millennium projects are now being planned across Canada in the areas of arts & culture, history, environment, youth, education, technology and celebration events. Dozens of "Millennium 2000" community committees have also been established including in: Calgary, Halifax, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Ottawa, Toronto, Mississauga, Oakville, Bobcaygeon, Ontario and Donnacona, Quebec, and many other Canadian communities. "Millennium Committees" continue to be formed throughout the country.

Nearly every Canadian city and town will feature a 'Mega Celebration' on New Year's Eve 1999 (Y2K permitting!) and on New Year's Eve 2000 as well as special events and activities throughout the Year 2000 and beyond!

The Millennium Commission @ <http://www.millennium.gov.uk>

In keeping with its tradition of commemorating monumental milestones, The United Kingdom was the first country in the world to establish a 'National Millennium Program.' The Millennium Commission, established in February 1994, invited the people of the United Kingdom to come forward with proposals for projects with popular support which would make a lasting contribution to the public good. The Commission operates a three-fold funding strategy, representing the largest single non-governmental investment ever made in social and community throughout the United Kingdom: £1.25 billion for capital Millennium Projects; £200 million for Millennium Awards; £100 million towards the Millennium Festival.

Hundreds of capital and community-based projects are being funded under this program. The first grants were awarded in September 1995. There are 28 major capital projects which have been awarded a grant between £15 and £50 million each across the United Kingdom and many other projects ranging from renovating and building village halls to creating and conserving woodlands and enhancing churches.

A national Millennium Festival of civic and community celebrations has the Millennium Experience in Greenwich (a London borough) as its centerpiece. The Millennium Experience will open on New Year's Eve 1999 in the $1.25 billion (US) Millennium Dome which is the largest structure of its kind anywhere in the world. The year-long event will be one of the world's biggest Millennial celebration and is expecting over 12 million visitors. The focus of the "Millennium Experience" will be the theme of 'Time' and contain multi-media and interactive exhibits on environment, society, culture and life in the future. London, England will also be the site of the Millennium Wheel (the largest Ferris wheel ever built), Millennium Bridge, Millennium Village and many other millennial landmarks.

Dublin, Ireland (Dublin 2000 @ <http://www.dublin-2000.com>) and Edinburgh, Scotland (Hogmanay @ <http://www.hogmanay.com>) will also be centers for Millennium celebrations in the United Kingdom - from New Year's Eve 1999 onward.

The UK's Millennium Festival Fund is providing up to £100 million to enable people to celebrate the Millennium. The Festival Fund aims to support local and regional celebrations throughout the country, substantially during the Year 2000.

"AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

All kinds of activities will be supported by the Fund including recreational, educational, heritage, charity, sports and arts initiatives with the aim of creating a lasting legacy for cities, towns and villages.

Millennium Awards of at least £2,000 are being made available to individuals. These awards will enable thousands of people to undertake activities across the United Kingdom, which will fulfil personal goals and provide benefits to the community.

The United Kingdom is also home to one of the world's first international Millennium projects - Beacon Millennium. At midnight on December 31, 1999, beginning at the International Date Line, the world will watch and participate as a ribbon of light circles the globe – time zone by time zone – linking nations and people in a universal symbol of hope and renewal. This chain of beacons (fires, lights, lasers, billboards, office towers, candlelight parades, fireworks) will mark the arrival of the Year 2000 on a global basis. Beacon Millennium also plans to raise significant funds for children's and environmental charities in each participating country. For more information on the Beacon project visit: <http://www2.dtpo.co.uk/beaconmillennium/index2.html> or <http://www.2000cdn.com>.

In addition, one of the planet's first Millennium information web sites - Greenwich 2000 (<http://www.greenwich2000.com>) - launched from the UK in 1995.

FRANCE

Mission for the Celebration of the Year 2000 @ <http://www.celebration2000.gouv.fr>

Not to be outdone by their cousins across the English Channel, France was the second country in the world to establish a multi-million dollar "National Millennium Program" - the Mission for the Celebration of the Year 2000. It was launched on April 4, 1997 to coincide with the start of the 1000-day Countdown to the Year 2000.

From the "Mission for the Celebration of the Year 2000":

The celebration of the year 2000 cannot be reduced to a few festivities. Both the occasion and its broader context call for seeing it also as an invitation.

"AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

It is an invitation, first of all, to think about our future, to make certain conscious gestures symbolizing a new way of living together on the planet. It is also an invitation to mark a new relationship to time, a new relationship to others, and a new relationship to our environment and an invitation to renew our confidence in the future by having confidence in our creative abilities. This is the basic underlying spirit of the program 2000 in France, the turn of the Millennium, which will extend over a period of 18 months, from autumn 1999 to early 2001.

Three different kinds of time will mark the turn of the Millennium in France: the time for festivities, the time for reflection, and the time for creation. Festivities solemnize passages and thresholds. By inviting every citizen to be an active participant, those of the year 2000 will exemplify new ways of being and living together. In between the festivities, the celebrations of the Year 2000 will also offer moments of reflection, looking back on the past or ahead to the future. Finally, because there is a need for today to be inventing tomorrow, the Mission is committed to stimulating, coordinating and supporting initiatives in the arts.

Three symbolic dates for celebrations have been singled out:

- New Year's Eve, 31 December 1999, which will be marked by a gesture common to all, so that no one is left behind. This will be the celebration of solidarity and the celebration of a new relationship to others.
- The annual Music Festival, 21 June 2000, will dedicate this year to doing away with borders--the ones that separate France's cities from the surrounding suburbs, but also the ones that separate the different countries of the world. This will be the celebration of a shared culture that is enriched by contact with others, the symbolic celebration of the new European cultural arena in the making.
- Bastille Day, 14 July 2000, a celebration of nature and its rediscovery. Thousands of trees planted along the Paris meridian between Dunkerque and the Pyrenees will provide a setting for festivities organized throughout the summer to increase awareness of the need to coexist with nature.

As would be expected, many of France's Millennium celebrations are centered in Paris with numerous events and exhibits scheduled to take place throughout the Year 2000. The Eiffel Tower is the symbolic focal point and is home to both a massive "Year 2000 Countdown Clock" and a major global Millennium information web site - the Worldwide Observatory of the Year 2000 @ <http://www.tour-eiffel.fr>.

White House Program @ <http://www.whitehouse.gov/Initiatives/Millennium>

Americans have been preparing for a grand celebration of the Millennium for over a quarter century. The focus has been on six perspectives: religious, community, societal, media, commercial and national. Pioneering efforts began in earnest after America's Bicentennial celebration of 1976.

The religious significance of the Year 2000 for Christians is primarily in regard to the celebration of the 2,000th anniversary of the birth of Christ. Many initiatives to mark this unprecedented anniversary are currently underway. Jay Gary, author of "The Star of 2000" and originator of the "Let's Talk 2000" forum, is a pioneer in this area. See Talk 2000 @ <http://www.talk2000.com> for information.

At the community level, hundreds of local, national and global Millennium projects and events have been initiated by individuals and groups across the United States. The first was The Millennium Society which was established in 1979 to celebrate the Year 2000 by organizing an international New Year's Eve 1999 celebration. "The World Millennium Celebration" will have its focal point at the Great Pyramid at Giza, Egypt. The Society is also a pioneer of the "Millennium Spirit" with its charitable purpose of endowing a $100 million Millennium Scholar Program. See the Society's website at <http://www.millenniumsociety.org> for further information.

A major focal point for international attention on New Year's Eve 1999 will, of course, be Times Square. Recognizing this potential, the Times Square Business Improvement District developed a special Millennium event called: "Time Square 2000 - The Global Celebration at the Crossroads of the World." This event will feature giant video screens bordering the square, which will broadcast 24-hours of global celebrations beginning 7am EST on December 31st, 1999. For information and a live cybercast see the Times Square web site at <http://www.times-square.org>. A huge celebration event is also now being planned for New Year's Eve 1999 at the Statue of Liberty.

“AROUND THE WORLD” MILLENNIUM TOUR

In addition to New York City, many other civic celebrations are being planned across the USA. Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Dallas, Los Angeles, and Miami are among the first American cities to create "Millennium Committees" to develop and coordinate their commemorative plans. Many others have since followed suit including Atlanta, Fort Lauderdale, Denver, Seattle, Orange County, San Francisco, and Washington, D.C. (Many of these cities will also form part of First Night International's network of Year 2000 celebrations. See <http://www.firstnight.org>). State-wide initiatives are also starting to appear including the States of Maryland, Minnesota and Washington. (See the Report's "International Projects & Events" listings for related web sites.)

A number of American groups have recognized the societal potential of marking the Millennium. The Millennium Institute of Arlington, Virginia is a pioneer in focusing the issues of sustainability and the global future at the turn of the Millennium. (See the Institute's web site at <http://www.igc.apc.org.millennium> for information.) Other forward-thinking organizations who are addressing the Millennium opportunity include the World Future Society based in Bethesda, Maryland (<http://www.wfs.org>) and the new Seattle-based Foundation For the Future (<http://www.futurefoundation.com>) with its "Humanity 3000" program. Over the next few years, thousands of other organizations, universities and colleges will be focusing programs, conferences and symposia on the broad issues presented by the Year 2000, the Millennium and the future.

Numerous social movements have also been generated by the arrival of the new Millennium. Many of these are centered in the United States, including World Peace 2000 and Earth Day 2000. Information on these and other initiatives can be found in the Global Initiatives section below.

Major American media companies such as ABC News, PBS, CBS Radio and Time Warner have already launched retrospectives of the 20th Century in formats including television shows, special magazine issues, audio tapes, CD's, books and Internet web sites. As the Millennium approaches, tens of thousands of special TV productions, magazine issues and newspaper articles can be expected. Look for lists of the "Best and Worst of the Century" and the "Best and Worst of the Millennium" to appear for every conceivable cultural icon. The temperature is beginning to rise for "Millennial Fever!"

The entrepreneurial spirit is another aspect of the Millennium opportunity, which is being expressed on a large-scale in America. Thousands of trademarks on every conceivable variation of "Year 2000" and "Millennium" have been filed with the U.S. Trademark Office. Many products are already on the market such as Countdown Clocks, Watches and Calendars, Time Capsules, etc. Thousands more will undoubtedly appear in 1999, 2000 and beyond.

“AROUND THE WORLD” MILLENNIUM TOUR

Large American companies are also starting to take notice of the Millennium. In 1998, M&M's, became the "Official Candy of the New Millennium", Discover Card became the prime sponsor of Times Square 2000 and department store giant J.C. Penney began selling Year 2000 clothing. Expect much, much more in 1999!

In certain circles however, the commercial spirit is being balanced by the spirit of giving. Many organizations and product launches are creating or adding a charitable component to their Millennium initiative. An example of this "Millennium Spirit" is to be found with the Billennium Organizing Committee based in Chicago, Illinois which was one of the first American groups to plan celebrations events. Billennium is to be a multi-year series of international events beginning in 1999 and ending with a "2000th Birthday Party for the World" on "New Millennium's Eve." In addition to the festivities, funds generated will establish The Billennium Education Foundation, whose goal is to create a legacy of education. See Billennium's web site at <http://www.billennium.com>.

Another early initiative originating in the Chicago area is Millennium Celebrations which is to be a series of celebration events around the world culminating in a five-day, four-night gala commemorating the turn of the Millennium. Details are available at the Millennium Celebration's web site at <http://www.2000celebration.com>.

The EPCOT Center at Disney World in Orlando, Florida recently announced that it will commence its Millennium celebration with the opening of a new pavilion in 1999 - the Millennium Village. The new Village will celebrate the human spirit, our common humanity and our diversity. The United Nations will join up to 50 nations in participating in the Millennium Village. (See <http://www.disney.com/DisneyWorld> for further info.)

A National Millennium Program for the United States, The White House Millennium Program, was launched on August 15, 1997. The program features major initiatives in conjunction with the National Endowment for the Humanities, the National Endowment of the Arts, the National Archives and many other government branches and agencies. The focus is on American culture, scholarship and scientific exploration while providing the nation with opportunities to learn American history, preserve cultural heritage and give permanent gifts to the future. Communities that initiate imaginative programs will be awarded the title "Millennium Community." A listing of the government's Millennium projects is available at the White House Millennium Council web site @ <http://www.whitehouse.gov/Initiatives/Millennium>.

Special mention should also be made of "Millennium Pioneer" Greg Wright of Los Angeles who has been promoting grand Millennial concepts for many years, including the Millennium World Snapshot (a.k.a. Millennium Holomorph) which is a project of people everywhere creating millions of simultaneous images at the moment, hour, and day of the turn of the Third Millennium. (See <http://www.vremag.com>).

New Zealand is the most populace country adjacent to the International Date Line. It's adjoining Islands will also be the first inhabited places on the planet to greet the sunrise on January 1, 2000. This accounts for the high level of international attention New Zealand is generating. Many Millennium, activities are scheduled to take place across the country from New Year's Eve 1999 through the Year 2000.

The Government of New Zealand established a National Millennium Program in 1997 with the creation of the Millennium Office and Towards 2000 Taskforce. A budget of $14.9 million (US) was made available for projects and events qualifying for the official Millennium Celebrations program. The government recently announced that an internationally televised dawn ceremony linking Mount Hakepa on Pitt Island, the East Coast's Mount Hikurangi and Gisborne will be the centerpiece of the official Millennium Celebrations. Pitt Island is now considered to be the first inhabited land in the world to see the arrival of the Year 2000. (See the Royal Astronomical Society of New Zealand web site @ <http://www.rasnz.org.nz/MillSunR.htm>)

New Zealanders have so far proposed 149 concepts under the program to celebrate the new Millennium ranging from nation-wide light shows and musical events to community activities, technology and telecommunications development, exhibitions and cultural events.

Gisborne will be the first city in the world to see the "first sunrise" of 2000 and, accordingly, is the center of much interest and activity under the theme of the "First Light Festival". One major highlight will be the Pacific Tall Ships Festival 2000 when Tall Ships from around the globe arrive in Gisborne to celebrate New Year's Eve 1999 and sunrise celebrations. Prior to arriving in Gisborne, the ships will dock in Wellington Harbour in New Zealand's capital city. See <http://www.gisborne2000.org.nz> for further information.

Auckland will be staging the America's Cup 2000 in the Year 2000 and is preparing for, over 200,000 visitors. New Zealand holds the current championship, which was last won in 1995. For detailed information on this global sporting event in the Year 2000 see <http://www.americascup2000.org.nz>.

Christchurch has eleven "Turning Point 2000" projects on the go. One of its projects - the installation of a "Millennium Countdown Clock" in Cathedral Square - was recently completed.

Another major center of Millennial activity in New Zealand is Southland where plans for numerous New Year's Eve 1999 and New Year's Day 2000 celebrations have been on-going for the past few years with major participation from the local Rotary International District. The South Pacific Millennium Consortium includes the countries of Fiji, Tonga, Samoa, Kiribati and the Cook Islands. The consortium was formed to promote the region for the Millennium. These nations had been jockeying for position over the past few years for "bragging rights" to claim to be the first land to welcome the sunrise on January 1, 2000. (Pitt Island, New Zealand has been confirmed as the first inhabited land to do so - see above.) However, all are now receiving worldwide tourist and media attention due to their proximity to the International Date Line at the 180th Meridian.

The South Pacific Millennium Consortium recently clinched a deal with Time Square 2000 to include the region in its New Year's Eve 1999 television broadcast. The South Pacific Island countries can each have a five to fifteen minute time slot on the Time Square 2000 broadcast. ABC Television and Disney World also wish to include South Pacific celebrations in their December 31, 1999 - January 1, 2000 broadcast to the world. Over half-a-million people are expected to watch the broadcast in Time Square alone, with billions watching from around the world.

Fiji will host tens of thousands of tourists from around the world for the Year 2000 and the Millennium due to its unique position directly on the International Date Line. Hundreds of Cruise ships and yachts will dot the 180th Meridian awaiting the first rays of the sun on New Year's Day 2000. Plans are afoot to build a huge wall with over 100,000 blocks along the Meridian, which will be lit up and be visible from space.

Other Millennium initiatives include a National Essay Competition with the winners personally delivering their messages to the United Nations in 1999, a National Millennium Song Competition open to overseas entries, hosting of the "Millennium Round the World Yacht Race" in March 2000 and the Olympic Flame in May 2000.

Tonga has formed a National Millennium Committee made up of members from all government sectors and private organizations with the aim of organizing projects and events to celebrate the Year 2000 and the new Millennium. The celebrations will be based on activities that increase appreciation of the environmental, social and religious aspects of Tonga. A calendar of events leading up to the new Millennium has already been drawn up which includes; a canoe carving exhibition, an international boxing competition, a whale watch festival and a brass band championship, amongst various cultural exhibitions, talent quests, sports tournaments and religious activities.

AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

CHINA

China doesn't plan to be absent from the global Millennium celebrations. In 1998, China erected a "Millennium Countdown Clock" at The Great Wall. In addition, some 2,000 Chinese couples are to welcome in the Year 2000 by getting married in a group wedding ceremony in Beijing on December 31, 1999. More than 20,000 couples will be invited to attend group weddings to be held at the same time in other cities throughout China.

EGYPT

Information Web Sites:

Egyptian Tourism Information @ <http://www.idsc.gov.eg/culture> and <http://touregypt.net>

Egypt is one country in the world where the past and the future meet. The Great Pyramids at Giza are, perhaps, the most well known structures on the planet. It is, therefore, no surprise that a number of global Millennium initiatives wish to feature the Pyramids and all that they symbolize in their events and telecasts. The US-based Millennium Society (www.millenniumsociety.org) has been promoting "the world's biggest party on December 31, 1999 at the Great Pyramids" for almost 20 years. More recently, Billennium (www.billennium.com), another US-based organization, added the Pyramids to its list of celebration locations

Egypt has also announced a New Year's Eve 1999 celebration concert at the Great Pyramid featuring French star musician Jean Michel Jarre who is creating a 12 hour multi-media opera especially for this event. The celebration will begin at sunset on December 31, 1999 and run through sunrise on January 1, 2000 and will be highlighted by the capping of the Great Pyramid at Cheops with a 9 meter gold cap restoring the pyramid to its original height of 137 meters.

In additions to the events at the Pyramids, one of the seven "Ancient Wonders of the World" is to be rebuilt for the Millennium. "Pharos", the ancient Lighthouse of Alexandria will be rebuilt on its original site to herald the Third Millennium. The cost of the project will be $70 million (US) and is being co-sponsored by the Fondation Internationale Pierre Cardin and UNESCO (<http://www.unesco.org>). Members of the public will also be invited to buy shares to help finance the "Alexandria 21st Century Project."

"AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

EUROPEAN UNION

Information Web Sites:

European Union @ <http://www.eurunion.org>

The European Union is planning various commemorative programs to mark the Millennium. One major initiative is a program in which nine European cities have been declared European Cities of Culture 2000. The nine cities are; Avignon, Bergen, Bologna, Brussels, Krakow, Helsinki, Prague, Reykjavik and Santiago. The nine cities are working together to coordinate their projects and create a "European cultural space for the Year 2000." One such initiative aims to link together by satellite all the major museums and cultural institutions in each city into one vast "virtual museum."

FINLAND

Information Web Sites:

Helsinki Tourism Information @ <http://www.hel.fi>

Helsinki is one of the nine European Cities of Culture 2000 with the theme of "Knowledge, Technology and the Future." About $50 million (US) is being invested in an international cultural program during the Year 2000 which will include arts, music and sports events and a Tall Ships festival. The annual "Festival of Light" in Helsinki is planning magnificent displays for November to December of 1999 and 2000.

Countdown 2000 @ <http://www.countdown2000.de>

Deutschland 2000 @ <http://www.deutschland2000.de>

Hannover is the host city for Expo 2000. The $1.7 billion (US) international exposition runs from June 1 to October 31, 2000 with the theme "Humankind - Nature - Technology." Exhibits will demonstrate solutions for a "one world" future and be geared towards integrated approaches that combine the resources of technology, culture, science, business and politics.

"AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

"Expo 2000 Hannover wishes to serve as a signal for individuals, corporations, organizations, institutions and nations to join hands across territorial boundaries and work towards a sustainable and harmonious common future." The exposition will feature many interactive and virtual exhibits. Expo 2000 has already broken the previous records for number of countries and international organizations participating. Millions of visitors are expected.

Dusseldorf Fair organizers have announced the "24 Time Zone Party" as part of its celebrations in December 1999. The party is expected to be the "longest New Year's Eve in the world." The celebration will span the entire fairground and several fantasy and dream worlds are to be built. Visitors will be free to choose "what world he or she would like to dream in the Third Millennium" and via video-conferencing and satellite communications will be able to view celebrations in other world time zones. For further information see Countdown 2000 @ <http://www.countdown2000.de>.

Israel Ministry of Tourism @ <http://www.goisrael.com>

Israel Tourist Information @ <http://www.infotour.co.il>

Palestinian Association for Cultural Exchange @ <http://www.planet.edu~pace>

The land where it all began is gearing up for the Year 2000. The State of Israel and the Palestinian Authority are cooperating to make the "Holy Land" a major tourist destination. Up to 4.5 million tourists are expected during the Millennial celebrations which is about twice the usual number. Many of these "Millennial Tourists" will be Christians responding to a papal decree encouraging pilgrimages. Many others will come with their religious groups from the USA, Europe and elsewhere to revitalize their faith on the 2,000th anniversary of the birth of Jesus (see <http://www.jesus-2000.com>). Some will even come to await Armageddon.

The government of Israel has spent $400 million (US) in infrastructure, hotels and marketing in preparation. Celebrations will be focused in three areas - Nazareth, Bethlehem and Jerusalem - and continue through to January 2001.

ITALY and the VATICAN

NORWAY

Information Web Site

Norway Information @ <http://www.norway.org.uk>

Norway has established a Millennium Commission to seek ideas for and coordinate Millennium celebrations. One extraordinary commitment made by the national government is a "Millennium Gift" to forgive Third World Debt owed to Norway in the amount of $150 million (US). Every Norwegian town and village will have fireworks displays on New Year's Eve 1999 but the largest will be in the capital of Oslo, which will also be celebrating its 1,000-year anniversary. The City of Bergen is one of the nine European Cities of Culture 2000 and numerous programs and events are being planned.

RUSSIA

Millennium Information Website:

Russia Millennium @ <http://www.millennium.ru>

Russia's "Committee 2000" is a non-governmental organization established in Moscow in 1998 to plan Millennium initiatives and celebrations. The Committee is made up of prominent academics, government, media and business leaders. Its objectives are:

- To invite the cooperation and collective work for the celebration by as many interested people as possible;
- To facilitate discussion of ideas, projects and propositions linked with futurist subjects;
- To provide information about plans and activities of Committee 2000;
- To collaborate with international Millennium institutions and web sites;

"To reflect expectations, forecasts and visions on the edge of the New Epoch. What are the challenges Russia and the world will face in the next Millennium?" (Further information can be accessed at <http://www.millennium.ru>).

An ambitious international Millennium project from a Russian organization was announced in December 1998. The "Road to the New Millennium" is a three part project involving media and television broadcasts comprising: the "Global Book of Humanity", the "Polar Journey" (1999) and the "North Pole Millennium" (2001). "AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

GLOBAL INITIATIVES

The Millennium is global in scope, scale and vision. Accordingly, many groups have been thinking globally when planning their Millennium initiatives. Examples that are referenced in this Report include; The Great Millennium Global Singalong (Canada), Beacon Millennium (UK), Bienvenue 2000 (Canada), Road to the New Millennium (Russia), World Action for the Millennium (Spain), Bilennium (USA) and the World Millennium Celebration (USA).

Some global initiatives are projects while others are international societal movements. These are major campaigns involving millions of people worldwide. They include:

Abolition 2000	@	(http://www.abolition2000.org)
Earth Charter 2000	@	(http://www.earthcharter.org)
Earth Day 2000	@	(http://www.envirolink.org/earthday)
Jubilee 2000	@	(http://www.oneworld.org/jubilee2000)
Living Planet Campaign	@	(http://www.panda.org)
One Day In Peace	@	(http://www.oneday.net)
World Peace 2000	@	(http://www.worldpeace2000.org)

It's apparent that the "Millennium Energy" is leading many to focus their best hopes and aspirations for the future on the turn-of-the-Millennium. This is a very significant aspect of the Millennium opportunity. Many other organizations worldwide have also addressed the opportunity in a big way:

- Pope John Paul II has proclaimed the Year 2000 as a "Holy Year" and The Great Jubilee and called upon the world's Catholics to do special acts and deeds to mark it, under the themes of forgiveness and reconciliation. (See <http://www.vatican.va>)
- The United Nations is convening a "Millennium Summit" of heads of state who will gather to address the future at the UN in the fall of 2000. The UN has also declared the following International Years: 1999 is the Year of Older Persons, 2000 is the Year of Thanksgiving and the Year For the Culture of Peace, and 2001 is the Year of Dialogue Among Civilizations and the Year of Volunteers. (See <http://www.un.org>)
- The "Millennium Peoples Assembly Network", at the invitation of UN Secretary General Kofi Annan, is planning a parallel "people's assembly" at the UN, also in the fall of 2000. (See <http://www.netreaction.com/mpan>)

"AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

- The Hague Appeal for Peace 1999 Conference will bring together groups from around the world to promote peace in the 21st Century. It will mark the 100th anniversary of the first International Peace Conference in 1899. (See <http://www.haguepeace.org>)
- The One Day In Peace Network has garnered much international support for its global campaign to make January 1, 2000 an international "Day of Peace." (See <http://www.oneday.net>)
- Milenio's mission is to enhance the visibility, development and effectiveness of peace initiatives worldwide through gatherings of world leaders, Nobel laureates, musicians, artists, environmentalists, spiritual leaders, grassroots organizations, youth and local citizens dedicated to peace, justice and a sustainable life. A series of events are being planned at the UN University For Peace in Costa Rica and elsewhere in the Year 2000. (See <http://www.milenio.org>)
- The Millennium Institute's "Millennium Report to the World", to be ready for the Year 2000, will be a short, compelling book summarizing and synthesizing what must be done during the 21st century to achieve a sustainable, just and peaceful future for Earth. (See <http://www.igc.apc.org.millennium>)
- The "Millennium Project", sponsored by the United Nation's University, links futurists from around the world focusing on new Millennium and found that the change of millennia provides an opportunity "for a global review of the past and an assessment of future possibilities." (<http://www.geocities.com/~acunu/Mill2.gif>).
- The World Economic Forum has instituted its TRUSTEES 21 project to unite global decision-makers to "improve the state of the world in the transition from the 20th to the 21st century." (See <http://www.weforum.org>)
- The World Future Society is holding its ninth General Assembly in Washington D.C. in the summer of 1999 under the theme "Frontiers of the 21st Century." (See <http://www.wfs.org>)
- The Foundation For the Future, based in Seattle, is convening its "Humanity 3000" program in 1999 and 2000 to assess the humanity's prospects for the next 1,000 years. (See <http://www.futurefoundation.com>)

"AROUND THE WORLD" MILLENNIUM TOUR

- The State of the World Forum has launched its Millennium initiative, called "Our Common Enterprise", which will come up with a Trans-cultural, sustainable "Agenda for the 21st Century" and identify "best practices" around the world. (See <http://www.worldforum.org>)

Thousands of other organizational and international conferences will be held all over the world in preparation for the 21st century and the new Millennium during the Years 1999, 2000 and 2001.

Numerous 24-hour (and longer) "live" Global Television Broadcasts are being planned for December 31, 1999/January 1, 2000 including "2000 Today" (a global consortium of broadcasters including ABC, PBS, BBC and CBC), "Times Square 2000" and the Millennium Television Network. Everyone will be able to view and participate in the global celebrations that day!

There will, of course, be many more such Millennium initiatives around the world before it's all over!

Finally, there is also the global challenge and opportunity presented by the "Millennium Bug" (Y2K) which will effect almost everyone on the planet to a greater or lesser degree.

Strap yourself in! The Millennial Moment promises to deliver one extraordinary ride!!

CREATING YOUR MILLENNIUM PROJECT

Everyone on the planet can do something special to mark and celebrate this extraordinary moment in time! As individuals, organizations, communities and societies we can each celebrate our shared past and express our hopes for the future with a unique "Millennium Project"!

Imagine what the world would be like over the next few years if millions (or billions!) of people took up the challenge to express their hopes and dreams through such action initiatives - whether large or small! There's nothing to stop us!

Your special Millennium Project can be a poem, a picture, a song, a story, a timecapsule, planting a tree, preserving or dedicating a park, creating a legacy, sharing a meaningful celebration, making a "New Millennium Resolution", preparing for the "Millennium Bug" or any one of ten thousand ideas. They are limited only by our imagination.

Although larger projects will often require outside resources, many smaller ones will not and only require ourselves - our time, energy and commitment. Larger projects can seek help. There are many programs for such assistance in place today in Canada and in many other countries. Contact your local town or city hall, or your provincial, state or federal government (for Canada contact the Canada Millennium Partnership Program @ <http://www.millennium.gc.ca>). Also, rely on each other - on the resources, groups, organizations and businesses in your community. The Millennium is about helping each other to reach our shared dreams.

In an article published in the Toronto Star on December 31, 1995 (What Will Canada Do?), your Editor wrote: "Everyone can do something special to mark this extraordinary time. In small ways and large, we can all celebrate our shared past and express our hopes for the future with a unique Millennium Project:

- § Individuals and Communities can plan and create special Millennium projects and events representing their hopes and dreams for the future.
- § Organizations and Institutions of all kinds can also create special Millennium initiatives. They can further dedicate forums and conferences over the next three years to positive thinking and action for the future.
- § Businesses and Corporations can devise meaningful Millennium products, projects and services which reflect their best hopes and aspirations.
- § Governments at every level can establish "Millennium Committees" and Partnerships to assist citizens and communities in marking and celebrating the new Millennium.

In 1999, there are many such initiatives underway across the globe. Many, many more can be created over the next three years of the Millennial Moment (1999, 2000, 2001).

As is set out in the pages of The Millennium Report, thousands of people around the world have already been inspired by the turn of the Millennium to create their special projects. Now we can, be inspired by them! Begin your Millennium Project today!

To further assist you in creating your project, we are including ten criteria for a "Millennium Legacy Project" which have been developed by Great Millennium Group. These are guidelines to help you plan an initiative which will "mark the Millennium in a meaningful manner." It can be used as a "checklist":

10 Things Your Millennium Legacy Project Can Do:

1. Celebrate our shared past and future.
2. Express a positive message of hope, renewal and new beginnings.
3. Generate widespread and enthusiastic multicultural and multi-generational participation.
4. Include a significant "Millennium Legacy" component through a tangible commitment to the future.
5. Engage the "grass-roots" and local communities directly.
6. Benefit the community on an inclusive basis emphasizing that everyone can help to build a better future through individual and collective actions.
7. Share the benefits of the initiative among all stakeholders.
8. Be creative and innovative and encourage creativity and innovation.
9. Utilize the new communication technologies to reach more people.
10. Foster one or more of the following Millennial Values and Goals toward a better world by ensuring that your Millennium Legacy Project "H.E.L.P.S.";
Harmony
Ecological Awareness
Legacy
Partnership
Sustainability

HISTORY

Century's End

Hillel Schwartz, Doubleday, 1990

Here is the definitive cultural history of the fin de siècle, from the 1990s through the 1990s. Explains how the "century-end effect" will impact the '90s, from the fear of decay and fantasies of renewal. Superb material on "The Legend of the Year 2000"--a storehouse of research. TOWARD THE GREAT MILLENNIUM

By Don Toppin, Founding Chairman, World Millennium Network
(Originally published by the World Future Society in 1986)

The Third Millennium A.D. can become The Great Millennium: one thousand years of peace and well-being for all the inhabitants of the global village. Never before has a guiding image of this magnitude been viable. Now the vision is clear, realizable and urgent. The darkness has become so deep that we are beginning to see the stars.

The challenge is colossal. The dream is the first step to reality. Billions of people are waiting to respond to wise, farsighted leadership and a vision of hope and understanding. Hope, like fear, is contagious! The Great Millennium is an idea whose time has come.

We now live in one interdependent world with global communication, transportation, travel and trade. The next step is the globalization of understanding, which transcends tribalism while reducing breakdowns and acceleration breakthroughs. The dream becomes the energizer.

The human race has become connected by the machine. The medium has become the message. Myriad impulses originating in every corner of the world crisscross and interlink the human system ever more tightly. The entire world has become a single community!

Modern wars are neither affordable nor winnable. Nuclear weapons have no military value, if used, except in the hands of terrorists. Starvation and sickness, as products of shortsightedness and ignorance, are no longer necessary. Many things are now possible, including peace and well-being, as soon as enough human beings realize that the future of the human race is at stake.

It is now reasonable to prophesy that we are approaching the dawn of the greatest cultural epoch since the beginning of human life on earth provided that a fresh transcendent campaign for a positive future, already launched in the consciousness of billions, is as successful as it must be. The alternatives are too horrible to mention!

The options are clear. Time and again, supposedly inexorable forces have been reversed by human acts proceeding out of positive human decisions. Moreover, there seems to be a growing worldwide consensus in favor of peaceful progress toward a sane, sustainable global society.

Indeed, as violence and terrorism threaten, it is increasingly difficult, whether in the East or the West or the North or the South, to find anyone who is enthusiastic about continuing to live in the shadow of either socio-economic disaster or thermo-nuclear holocaust. More and more, it is realized that the money spent on the global arms race could eliminate all global socio-economic problems and, at the same time, accelerate the trend toward global cooperation in human matters. The opportunities are already contained in the problems so perceived.

This is an age of re-awakening, re-searching, re-thinking and re-inventing. It is also an age of convergences and trade-offs. In this fragile period of transition, small incremental changes in individual thought and action can tilt the balance toward appropriate social policies, locally and globally. The visions are clear for those who choose to see and consciousness is rapidly increasing at many significant levels.

The late great world visionary Buckminster Fuller speaks of "Six Billion Billionaires" meaning a world population by the Year 2000 with each inhabitant enjoying a minimal standard of civilized life with facilities and choices much greater than the real billionaires of only a few years ago. Shortly before his departure, Bucky explained:

For the first time in history, humanity has the capability to offer every individual a higher standard of living than any single individual has ever known. This can be accomplished through a design-science revolution. Design science is the effective application of the principles of science to the conscious design of our total environment.

Neither the great political and financial power structures of the world nor the population in general realizes that an invisible revolution - metallurgical, chemical, electronic - now makes it possible to do so much with so little (in terms of material, energy and time for a given task) that there are enough resources for everyone. Selfishness is unnecessary! Everyone can win!

With the finest aeronautical and engineering facilities of the world redirected from weaponry to livingry production, all humanity now has the option of becoming enduringly successful. All previous revolutions have attempted revengefully to pull the top down. If realized, this historically great revolution, the design-science revolution, will joyously elevate all humanity to unprecedented heights.

The Soviet futurist Igor Bestuzhev-Lada, past president of the International Association of Sociologists, believes "the world of tomorrow will be a world without arms, soldiers and wars. The billions that are dumped each year into the arms race will be more than enough for accomplishing the most daring projects. The transfer of the world economy to a peaceful state is perfectly feasible but, without halting the arms race, it is hard to count on the successful settlement of the many global problems including population, energy, minerals, resources, environment and food." As the mutual arms reduction programs become successful, the economic hardships of all hemispheres will begin to disappear.

As Chairman of the International Association for Arts in the Future, Takdir Alsijahbana, Rector of the National University of Indonesia, says: "There is no need for people to destroy each other." We are witnessing the greatest cultural explosion since 500 B.C. when transportation, communication and trade humbly began as man climbed upon the horse and rode toward the moon. The taming and utilization of the horse, a generally unrecognized milestone as important as the discovery of the wheel, portable type or electricity, seems to have contributed to a new world view as enunciated by Confucius, Buddha, Plato, Aristotle, Alexander and others and expressed in the Judeo-Christian and Moslem religions. According to this great oriental scholar, computers and satellites are now hastening another great leap forward in planetary consciousness which transcends all former boundaries. In the words of Peter Russell in his book Global Brain, we might well be headed toward a threshold point beyond which the momentum of rising consciousness will outweigh the inertia of the old ego-based model. If so, crossing this threshold would represent a major transition for humanity. When the "social atmosphere" rises sufficiently, enlightenment (understanding) will become the norm.

The book Seven Tomorrows by three SRI International futurists explodes the myth of a world conspiracy and shows clear alternatives that "can free people from the rigid lock of predeterminism." They emphasize that no one is in control of history, certainly neither Washington nor Moscow, contrary to widely-believed myths. Instead, humanity stands at a unique point:: simultaneously, our problems are so acute and our communications network so widespread that, for the first time in world history, genuinely collective and democratic decisions are both demanded and possible.

The hour seems ripe for leaders of vision and goodwill from all cultures to join forces in addressing the critical concerns of our age. Indeed, the world is being tied together by modern communication, transportation, travel and trade. But as Orville Freeman, former President of Business International Corporation on Wall Street warns, "At this time of strain and major adjustment, the danger is that the world will fracture apart in an orgy of nationalist retaliation, protectionism, subsidization and a host of other devices that countries use to look after themselves and beggar their neighbors. A new group partnership of coordination and give-and-take is needed to replace the old hegemonic world structure. The necessary international institutions for survival an interdependent world can be built or rebuilt and the world can be spared nuclear war."

"The situation demands leaders who will shift the world's attention and resources from maintaining East/West hostility to restoring the natural systems that ultimately sustain all societies," concludes Lester Brown in State of the World. "Acting in their own interests, these two countries could set the stage for demilitarizing the world economy. Once it starts, demilitarization, like militarization, could feed on itself."

To those who are able to see and understand, the critical path to The Great Millennium becomes clearly visible. Increasing public awareness, as generated by scientists, physicians, educators, clergy, executives, scholars, artists, financiers and others (media specialists, etc.) and fostered by the communication explosion and the culture builders (us) will rapidly spread throughout the world until it becomes politically necessary to divert the annual trillion dollar weaponry loss to an annual trillion dollar "livingry" gain. Transnational institutions to facilitate the transition will come together. The psychological origins of the macro-crises will become widely recognized and confronted. Social and economic pressures will lift. Simultaneously, a scientific environmental design for symbiotic cooperation will converge from the collective intelligence and creative will of a global population who, at long last, has regained hope.

It does not diminish the significance of the convergences to suggest less the arrival of an era of goodwill than the sentiment that drew the Butcher and the Beaver together in Lewis Carroll's "Hunting of the Snark":

The valley grew narrower and narrower still
And the evening grew darker and colder
'Till (merely from nervousness, not from goodwill)
They marched along shoulder to shoulder.

As the Butchers and the Beavers (East/West, labor/management, rightists/leftist, doves/hawks, etc.) learn that it is mutually advantageous to march shoulder to shoulder in the direction of a peaceful and sustainable global society, they will also learn to understand each other better - without nervousness - and with growing goodwill, trust and hope.

To help facilitate the transition, we have the underrated, underused United Nations and its far-reaching agencies plus hundreds of forward looking non-governmental groups and transnational organizations, who, even now, are trying to create a positive future by addressing a wide range of interrelated problems. many of these organizations are capable of transformation to the new relevancies.

We can support these groups as well as making our personal contribution in our own unique ways. Indeed, each of us can share this gift to posterity.

Individually and collectively, because we are in harmony with a vast invisible network of other positive forces, we become co-creators of the miracle of The Great Millennium - a miracle which can be visualized and shaped - beginning right now!

COUNTDOWN 2000 - "MILLENNIUM MESSAGES"

"Millennium Messages" on the Occasion of the United Nations 50th Anniversary

These "Millennium Messages" arose from events held in Toronto, Canada on June 1-3, 1995 under the theme of "Countdown 2000: Shaping the Global Age." The events were presented by the Global Foundation For Understanding in association with the United Nations Association in Canada (Toronto Chapter), the Rotary Club of Toronto-Forest Hill and Toronto/2000. They featured numerous 'global thinkers' who came together to share ideas and visions of a positive, sustainable future in launching "The Great Millennium Campaign" in 1995. These "Messages" have now become recommendations.

It is proposed that the United Nations General Assembly consider these five Resolutions:

- All member nations, their cities and communities, officially celebrate the Year 2000 as a global anniversary of the entire human family and establish "National Millennium Committees" to sponsor individual and community millennium projects, events and gifts, as some nations have already done.
- 2000 be declared the UN International year of Thanksgiving, Celebration and Hope.
- A "Peoples Assembly" be immediately established as a representative assembly of all the "peoples of the world". This assembly to be composed of Parliamentarians selected by their peers and of representatives of Non-Governmental Organizations. The assembly to initially act in an advisory capacity to the General Assembly and as an open forum for addressing issues of concern to the citizens of the UN's member nations.
- As a major Millennium Project over the next 5 years, all United Nations NGO's focus their conferences and forums on collectively formulating individual, organizational and societal short-term and long-term goals. In addition, their members be encouraged to express their hopes, dreams and visions for the 21st Century and the New Millennium. These goals and hopes to be compiled and presented to the UN in the year 2000.

- The world's religious and political leaders call upon their followers and citizens to seek forgiveness and forgive each other for the wrongs and mistakes of the past. And, to the greatest extent possible, debts also be forgiven whether individual, organizational or national. Further, that amnesty be granted to all "prisoners of conscience" and to all refugees the world over. The Year 2000 can be the year of reconciliation prior to the new Century and new Millennium!!

 IMPORTANT NOTE:

Since the date of these "Millennium Messages":

- ◆ Many nations, cities and communities have established "Millennium Committees" to celebrate and mark the Millennium. As well, additional "National Millennium Committees" have been created to sponsor individual and community millennium projects, events and gifts.
- ◆ The United Nations General Assembly has declared the Year 2000 to be the International Year of Thanksgiving.
- ◆ United Nations Secretary General Kofi Annan has called for a "People's Millennium Assembly" as a companion event to the "Millennium Summit of World Leaders", in September 2000. Planning for this Assembly is now underway in the global NGO community.
- ◆ Many UN NGO's have focused conferences and forums on collectively formulating individual, organizational and societal short-term and long-term goals.
- ◆ Pope John Paul II has declared the Year 2000 as the "Great Jubilee Year" and called upon nations and individuals to make 2000 a year of forgiveness and reconciliation.

(As Robert Muller often says: "Dreams Do Come True!!")

EXCERPTS FROM DON TOPPIN'S ADDRESS TO THE MILLENNIUM COUNCIL OF CANADA, FOUNDING CONGRESS -
OCTOBER 18, 1998:

I accepted the invitation to speak today because I wanted an opportunity to pay tribute to the missionary zeal and deep foresight of our Executive Director. It is no secret that Mr. Woolfson has devoted two years of his life laying the foundation of an organization which is designed to spread understanding and harmony during an epoch of hope while the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse - fiscal, ethical, environmental, population - are following in the shadows.

This is an age of transformation. The heart of relationships is empathy. The primary nature is biological. The secondary nature is cultural. It would seem that you are deeply involved in a process, which is leading to a magnificent convergence.

Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote, "This time, like all time, is a very good time, if we know what to do with it."

Today we are pausing to examine some of the alternatives. As we approach the Year 2000, the double-sided metaphor of the Millennium is re-emerging. We feel torn between alarm and enthusiasm. Are we at an Age of Darkness or at the entrance of a Golden Age? The choice is ours!

Since the creation of Canada in 1867, there have been two great Mega-Projects of national significance; The Diamond Jubilee in 1927 and the Canadian Centennial in 1967. The third Mega-Project is The Great Millennium Campaign. It will be different from the first two. It will be Global, Technological, Multicultural and Interfaith. It will change the world.

We specify "great" in anticipation that the vast majority will make healthy, positive choices. But the Millennium will come no matter what we do! Let's hope we are able to make it "great". The choice is ours!

A MILLENNIUM MYTH

The Bridge

A Myth for the New Millennium

by David Woolfson

There once was a People who were at one with themselves, nature and the Spirit of Life.

The People lived in harmony for many years.

One day, a leader arose from The People.

The leader taught The People fear and hate.

The People saw that they were not one and could no longer hear each other.

The People began to blame each other for their loss until the day came when one of The People struck down another.

When the Spirit saw what The People had done it banished them to be separated and to wander in a Wild Desert for an eternity.

The People wandered in the Desert of fear for countless millennia.

After a long time The People acquired much knowledge but had not yet found wisdom.

One day a Bridge suddenly appeared in the middle of their Desert.

A Bridge of brilliant light and color.

The People began to have visions of old leaders - the ones who had led them to survive the dark millennia to the day that they could at last see The Bridge.

The People, who had long been separated, came together with their leaders before The Bridge.

The People crossed The Bridge in love and hope to the unseen side which awaited them.

When The People reached the other side they had found wisdom and harmony.

Then they knew that all their age-old dreams were finally possible.

"Man-Made Climate Change To Be Serious Threat in 21st Century"

Evidence presented by Britain's respected Hadley Centre for Climate Change in a new report indicates that the world is facing severe consequences from global warming in the next century. Recent simulations of projected carbon emissions and weather patterns by the world's biggest supercomputer at the Hadley Centre have shocked many experts worldwide. Key projections for the year 2050 include: 100 million people being affected by floods increasing from 5 million today; an additional 30 million people going hungry because large sections of Africa will be too dry to grow crops; an additional 170 million people will suffer water shortages; malaria will spread across the globe, even threatening Europe; the world's food production will be widely affected by rising temperatures, particularly in Africa and the United States. Projections for after 2050 are even worse. Based on current trends, it is anticipated that a lack of rainfall and temperatures rising as much as 7 degrees Celsius in key areas will result in Brazil's Amazon rainforest turning into desert, as might parts of the eastern US, southern Europe and Australia. This may begin a process of "forest dieback" which could release an unexpected surge of 2 billion tonnes of carbon a year into the atmosphere threatening the very survival of our species.

Pope Declares Year 2000 as "Holy Year"

Pope John Paul II has delivered an edict proclaiming the Year 2000 as a special Holy Year. The papal bull entitled, The Mystery of the Incarnation, states that the Roman Catholic Church must "implore forgiveness" for the injustices it has committed in the past. The document also urged wealthy nations to view 2000 as an opportunity to help debt-laden Third World countries lift themselves out of poverty. And, as in past Holy Years, Catholics who make pilgrimages or do good deeds during 2000 can obtain special indulgences for their sins. The Pope also decreed that the Great Jubilee would begin on Christmas Day 1999 and end on the Feast of the Epiphany on January 6, 2001.

BEACON MILLENNIUM CANADA

<http://www.2000cdn.com>

At midnight on December 31, 1999 the world will watch and participate as a ribbon of light circles the globe – time zone by time zone – linking nations and people in a universal symbol of hope and renewal. This extraordinary chain of beacons (fires, lights, lasers, billboards, office towers, candlelight parades, fireworks) will mark the beginning of the new Millennium in a stunning visual manner. Beacon Millennium will start at the International Date Line and move westward through New Zealand, Australia, Asia, Europe and Canada before reaching its final destination of Honolulu. It will be a global festival with a serious purpose - to create a charitable fund for the future of children and the environment. Beacon Millennium Canada plans to have 2,000 communities in Canada participating from St. John to Vancouver.

FLIGHT FOR LIFE EARTH KITE

<http://www.2000cdn.com>

Beginning in June 1999, Flight for Life will become an annual event in support of the responsible management of our most vital, yet fragile resource, air. It is a collective and individual statement to call attention to the urgency of this environmental crisis. The main message is that although the problem is global, the solutions can only come from efforts of each individual, family, and community. The drive is symbolized by kites that are flown every year by young and old as a statement to improve air quality. At the centre of the kite is a picture of the earth.

A Scattering of Seeds: The Creation of Canada

<http://seeds.history.ca/~seeds/>

Short Description Off This Web Site:

"A SCATTERING OF SEEDS - The Creation of Canada" is a series of 13 documentary films exploring the dreams, daring and determination of Canada's first immigrants. It is a journey into the hopes and triumphs of those who built a nation, interpreted by Canada's best independent documentary filmmakers.

The series premieres on History Television Wednesday, January 14th, 10:30 pm ET, with a repeat broadcast Saturday, January 17th at 2:00 pm ET. The series continues every Wednesday and Saturday for 13 consecutive weeks on History Television. It will premiere in the French language on RDI, Saturday, April 4. "A Scattering of Seeds" draws on a rich archive of home movies, photographs, letters home, diaries and oral history. These are personal portraits celebrating the diversity of the first families who arrived during Canada's formative years of nation building. From the early French, Ukrainian and Irish settlers to the more recent Chinese, Japanese and Sikh immigrants, this kaleidoscope of images and experiences is unparalleled in Canadian filmmaking.

First Night: Kingston, Ontario

<http://www.catalog.com/kingston/fn/>

Short Description Off This Web Site:

" First Night is a community-oriented, non-alcohol New Year's Eve celebration of the arts. It was founded in Boston in 1976, initiated by a group of civic-minded artists as an alternative form of community ritual to bring that city's neighbourhoods together to welcome the New Year. Boston's experience inspired cities across North America to start their own celebrations. First Night is a modern recreation of ancient traditions of mid-winter celebrations, and as it spreads across North America it seems to be serving a unique role in a culture "starved for ritual".

First Night now spans 35 states with 157 American cities involved, and in Canada, four provinces and one territory with 19 Canadian cities. Edmonton, Alberta has the distinction of being one of the biggest First Night celebrations in all of North America!

Short Description Off This Web Site:

What is the Heritage Project?

The Heritage Project is a long-term educational programme developed to raise greater interest and awareness in Canada's past. By linking what children see at home, on television and on computer screens to their studies, the Project aims to actively engage all Canadians in the sharing of their stories with each other, and with the world.

The Heritage Minutes, a series of 60-second "mini-movies" vividly bring to life notable people and events from our country's past. The Minutes feature such diverse subjects as heroism, achievements in sports and entertainment, women's issues, political rights and medical breakthroughs. The Minutes are currently broadcast on all major television networks, in French and English, and are also seen in Cineplex-Odeon and Empire movie theatres across Canada.

Short Description Off This Web Site:

"This theme of celebration is today's concern. "2000: FRANCE, EUROPE, THE WORLD - Fresh inspiration has set the mood to share in a world where people are, in fact, united by common destiny. Recognizing human diversity is what our country wants to promote in its celebrations. With our international partners, for over three years, culture, science, technology and communication have been the reasons as well as the means - along with solidarity, new technology, national heritage and tourism - to prepare and organize various meetings, colloquia, events, galas and surprises".

United States Naval Observatory Millennium

<http://psyche.usno.navy.mil/millennium>

Short Description Off This Web Site:

The end of the second millennium and the beginning of the third will be reached on January 1, 2001. This date is based on a now globally recognized calendar established by the sixth-century scholar Dionysius Exiguus, who was compiling a table of dates of Easter. Rather than starting with the year zero, years in this calendar begin with the date January 1, 1 Anno Domini (AD). Consequently, the next millennium does not begin until January 1, 2001 AD.
